Abide in the Wind

In Kingdom
Earthside,
slavery is legal!

Most slaves are traded in the same way as livestock.

Therefore, even if you buy them
they cannot be freed
from their status as a slave.

You cannot be surprised by what you saw earlier.

There are far
worse atrocities
in the south, where slavery is more prevalent.

These two were an extraordinary case
of unquenchable...

Lady Rosina, is your objective the abolishment of slavery?

It isn't, but...

Your objective was to find that personhood was it not? Then this discussion ends here.

Slavery isn't right now.

Yes.

That aside,
we need to look for another method to get into the labyrinth.

Its structure
doesn't give us room to sneak in...

we should just walk in, instead of talk.

since when did
we need permission from anyone...

I don't know if your senses have dulled from your deep slumbers.

but the kalyndh has been a military zone
ever since the kingdom's establishment.

We have no idea how humans have changed the interior since then.

I don't mind taking on one or two, but are you prepared to take out an entire army?

if they come by,
we can just deal
with them these and then.

they're nothing,
not weapons requiring,
terribly good post to you, are I wrong?

Well, the idea
has not changed then.
However,

I thought our Byzantians would prefer a more peaceful method, you see?

Ms. Karn is incredible

I didn't like the way she looked at me in the beginning.

but her abilities are later...

and she's always asserting about what she wants.

I wish I could be a little more like her...

Your existence is already a gift into this world.

You are fine, just the way you are

Bitte bringst du mich
Hervor.

Just having you
by my side gives me strength.

Thank's you.

Then can find a way to it could become an entry and exit

Do I need to look elsewhere?

How about requesting assistance
from someone else?
I overheard
someone saying to get in earlier

Who was it?

Would you be able to work out who it is if I gave you a description of them?

They did help me before...

Hmm... I'll have a look around for information about them

The one who suggested a visit to the labyrinth is a guest of the Roachard family.

There visit has been planned 4 days from today. He has a close appointment, so I couldn't find any weaknesses.

Ugh, Roachard.

They're a real company that deals primarily with more expensive goods.

They've even gotten their hands on elixirs.

Ayhan

Roachard

It's only because they're one of the things relatives fear! They're all born with a silver spoon in their mouth! Hahaha!

I really hate meeting business men there!

Thankfully I've found out that there's no way from the Rockford family ever there right now.

Well then I'll go and visit them.

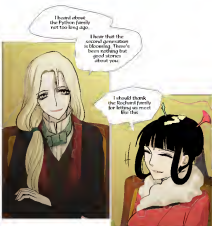

Don't get your hopes up too high.

If he's friends with the Rockfords, he's bound to have a bad personality.

Rockford Family's Teren Vacation House

It could be a relief, to have his going away party.

I don't have enough information about the girl's condition. I should write something to write her.

Thank you again
for your hospitality.
I'll see you at the exhibition.

Thank goodness
it worked out.

Yes, indeed.

That was too creepy.

Lady Emma.

I believe it is time I taught you how to use the powers of the Dragon Pearl.

Even if we do
manage to enter,
the labyrinth is full of guardians, so it will be quite dangerous.

well
we don't need to do something like that.

that's why we have the map as our protection,
and Lige Kuroki will always be with you,
so there's no
need...

We must always prepare ourselves
for the worst.

I don't think it would hurt to teach her self-defence.

teaching her...!
